

A thought of the day in passing . . .

ENLIGHTENMENT IS LIKE A PIE

A pie can be divided and labled in any way one wishes and be nonetheless - a pie.

Such be true of Enlightenment; of many paths

All from, and all returning . . . Home.

Consider the view of two royal roads:

The Monk's Path - The Householder's Path

Composed of multiples of pathways each.

The Monk's Way is inward; that of the Contemplative; solitary, meditator, ever in prayer, thought and devotion to God - or an ideal.

The Householder's is a path outward; devoted to service, (dharma) right behavior and general perfection of human be-ing . . . of himself - and/or all.

Each contains elements, to some degree, of the other.

All paths converge at center.

All pi .

And at the same time never to be other,

Than . . . the Whole.

August 6, 2009 Day 26

By Tara, all rights reserved by Bhagavan Fdn.

The book; ENLIGHTENMENT, will be reprinted page by page daily on this site free and in full. For the less patient, the book may be purchased in full from Bookstore.

ENLIGHTENMENT
by Tara

Life is God

(in relationship.)

August 6. 2009 Day 26

From the book; ENLIGHTENMENT, all rights reserved by Bhagavan Fdn