

A thought of the day in passing . . .

Life is a circle

What goes out must return
After reathing out . . . breathing in.
And one must ever grow . . . expand.
Or diminish . . . there is no standing still.
Life reveals this in all and everything
In one's life, a garden, the moon, the sea,
Life is circles and spirals . . .
Movement . . .
Its essence . . . change.
